45th IAEE International Conference

25-28 June 2024

Boğaziçi University, Istanbul, Türkiye

The PhD Day

The PhD Day is a student-only event that will be held on Tuesday, June 25. All current PhD Students in energy economics and related fields are invited to submit papers. This year's event follows the great success of the inaugural PhD Day in Riyadh last year.

The PhD Day facilitates a more in-depth discussion of each paper than concurrent sessions. Each paper will be reviewed closely by a discussant. Participants will have the opportunity to:

- present their paper to a student audience and practice presentation skills;
- receive feedback on their paper from a dedicated discussant and the audience;
- read someone else's paper and offer constructive criticism (as a referee would do for a journal); and
- meet students with similar interests and engage in productive discussions.

Important Dates:

- Abstract submission deadline: March 20th, 2024
  (email your complete paper to students@iaee.org)
- Presenters and discussants informed of their selection. April 7th, 2024
- Presenters may re-submit a revised version of their paper. May 5th, 2024
- PhD Day June 25th, 2024

Event Details

From the papers submitted for the PhD Day, a number of outstanding papers will be selected to be presented, and a discussant will be assigned to each paper. We may ask some students who are not presenting their own paper to act as discussants for other students. This is to ensure that a variety of topics can be covered during the day, while still assigning discussants with expertise in the relevant area.

The discussants will be expected to review their assigned paper in detail and discuss it in a constructive and helpful manner. This could include pointing the author to alternative literature that they may not have considered, suggestions for alternative approaches to the problem they have addressed, and suggestions for data sources, or alternative data sources, that may be relevant to the research. Guidelines for discussants will be sent closer to the date.

We invite students not presenting to attend and participate from the floor. There is no separate registration fee – this event is included as part of your conference registration.

Submissions

To make a submission, please email your full paper to students@iaee.org by March 20 2024.
Since each paper will be discussed at some length, we will only have time to cover 6 to 8 papers.
The students selected to present their paper will then have the opportunity to re-submit a revised version until May 5.
Papers will be sent to discussants soon after, to allow them sufficient time to prepare their discussion presentation.
